Lone Pine - Community Harvest Home Services

Harvest Home services were observed in connection with Community and Lone Pine Hall, Sunday last, and a supper and concert on Monday, October 28th at Lone Pine.

More perfect weather could hardly be desired. About 300 people participated in the occasion, a number going from Didsbury.

The hall was appropriately decorated and the supper was of the real harvest home nature with the best of food in abundance.

The sing-song which opened the program was led by Mr. H. O. Tonjum, with Mrs. J. Boorman at the piano. Then followed a hymn or so which was sung heartily. Mr. Hugh Roberts gave a comic and Mr. W. A. Austin followed with a ten-minute rapid fire speech brim full of the serious and humorous. The choir from Knox Church, Didsbury, sang two anthems and Mrs. Mertens and Mrs. Park gave a duet. Mrs. Geo. Clarke rendered two solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Geo. Burns. Mr. Tonjum favored with a solo. Others present and taking part were Mrs. J. L. Clarke, Mrs. Hillyard, Mrs. W. G. Evans, Messrs. R. A. Weston, E. C. Fletcher and T. Raynbird. Rev. Hayes acted as chairman.

The proceeds amounted to about $90, a generous portion of which was voted towards missions of the United Church. A division on a 50-50 basis was made between the halls and next year the Harvest Home festival is to be held at Community.

READY FOR EASTERN SHOWS

As in previous years, a number of steers fitted for the show ring by the Dept. of Animal Husbandry at the University of Alberta, will again compete for honors at the Toronto Royal Show and the Chicago International. Nineteen choice animals, including representatives of the three principal beef breeds, will be sent east this year where it is hoped they will equal the high mark set by Alberta entries in former years.

A Contribution To Canada

Out of the welter of charge and denial and appeals to racial and religious prejudice which characterized the recent Arm River by-election in Saskatchewan, one newspaper despatch from a special correspondent vividly impressed the writer of this column.

In the course of his journeyings around the constituency reporting the many meetings held, the staff correspondent of the paper in question had occasion to stop at the hotel in one of the smaller villages. The hotel was not of the usual type found in prairie villages. The rotunda he describes as "a bower of floral beauty," a close approach to a greenhouse. The ceiling was beautifully beamed and panelled, the proprietor having laid out five different plans for it before he felt satisfied. The hotel was scrupulously clean, the meals well cooked and nicely served by attractive help.

The correspondent was curious and he entered into conversation with the proprietor, one Kasper Haberlach by name. The secret of the beautiful woodwork was soon discovered in the fact that, in his youth, the proprietor had been a cabinetmaker, and had a love for fine woods and the beauty of fine lines. His love for the beautiful also found expression in his flowers. Relating his story, Kasper Haberlach told how he came to Canada sixteen years ago, in his early manhood. Today he is the father of seven daughters and two sons, most of whom were born in Canada.

Proud as Kasper Haberlach is of his attractive hotel, it is his family in which he rejoices. Particularly is he proud of their school attainments. One of the Misses Haberlach led her school for three years in succession. The youngest girl, now aged seven, was sought by Chataqua promoters a couple of years ago because of her talents as an entertainer. Kasper Haberlach, himself, speaks six languages fluently, but, says the correspondent, "I think he is probably most proud of the fact that his children all speak English indistinguishable from any other Canadian children."

Mr. Haberlach has a praiseworthy method of inculcating thrift in his family. His daughters help in the hotel. "I have always made it a rule," he said, "to pay my children wages daily for their help in the business, just as I would strangers. They are encouraged to save for education or business or whatever they desire."

Now what we find so encouraging in this whole story is that it seems to provide an answer to many good people who are greatly concerned over the subject of immigration. Here is a man from a foreign country, whose mother tongue is not English, but who, coming to Canada, brings with him an inborn sense of beauty, skilled craftsmanship, habits of thrift, high ideals of home life and citizenship, and a keen realization of the value of education, a man anxious that his children shall have the best that life can offer and determined that, to the full extent of his ability, they shall enjoy those privileges.

In this story from real life today, we also find a satisfactory answer for those who are inclined to question the efficiency of our schools and educational system, and their ability to perform the task of largely assimilating new comers from other lands into our common Canadian family.

The fact cannot but be realized and accepted that Kasper Haberlach brought with him to Canada something of far greater value to this country than money, and that the contribution he is making to the upbuilding of this Dominion is something more than, and far beyond, the mere making of money through the management of a well regulated hostelry for the comfort and convenience of the travelling public.

In the evolution and development of the Canadian people we require all the beauty, all the craftsmanship, all the talent, all the thrift, and the full recognition of the real things of life, that all the peoples of all the world can contribute. Canada does not desire to be a mere copy of any other nation or people, even though that nation and people be the best in the world today. Our ambition is loftier than that; as a Dominion our ambition is to rise still higher, and to develop on this northern half of the American continent a type of citizen superior to all that have preceded us—a citizenship that shall be God-fearing, healthy, industrious and happy, revelling in all that is beautiful in art, music, literature and nature, and finding a real joy and contentment in seeing our work well done.

And to all who have a contribution to make in working out this pattern of a strong and ideal Canadian citizenship, this Dominion should extend a wholehearted welcome.

Manitoba Sanatorium

Sale Of Christmas Seals To Be Held
This Year To Help Along the Good Work

The Manitoba Sanatorium at Ninette, Man., is launching again this year its sale of Christmas Seals. The Christmas seal fund last year made possible the purchase of a portable X-ray outfit, and, up to September 1st, financed the general expenses of twelve "missionary journeys" for the examination of people who had been in contact with tuberculosis, or who were suspected, or had symptoms. Three thousand people were examined, all known to be "contacts" or "suspects," a work very much worth while.

The 1928 seal money will be used to continue and extend this work and may also help with a very special work—to provide sanatorium care for children. The Province of Manitoba has not one bed especially provided for a tuberculosis child. There are children definitely ill, and children under par and infected who will soon be ill. To care for these sick children, to build up the almost-sick children into health and prevent their lapse into disease, is one of the best of all good works. Seals may help to do this. Prevention is better than cure, cheaper and more joyful in every way.

Christmas Seals are sold in sheets of 100 for $1.00; a seal for a cent. You can assist greatly in a most worthy cause by purchasing a sheet of these seals, and use them on all letters sent out during the Yule-tide season. Those willing to help may obtain these seals by writing to the Manitoba Sanatorium, at Ninette, Man. Dr. David A. Stewart is the medical superintendent.

A GREAT PUZZLE TO CAREFUL PARENTS

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child falls ill with gripping pains; is seized with cold or fever, refuses food or vomits what he has taken, when he cries a great deal and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandary. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to set him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly reduce fever, break up colds, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful health-restoring sleep. They are guaranteed absolutely harmless and safe for even the youngest and most delicate baby.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are free from these pests. A vermifuge that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their lives.

ASPIRIN

You doubtless depend on Aspirin to make short work of headaches, but remember that it's just as dependable an antidote for many other pains! Neuralgia? Many have found real relief in an Aspirin tablet. Or for toothache; an effective way to relieve it, and the one thing doctors are willing you should give a child—of any age. Whether to break up a cold, or relieve the serious pain from neuritis or deep-seated rheumatism, there's nothing quite like Aspirin. Just make certain it's genuine; it must have Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin;
it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

WOULD SHIP MARITIME COAL BY BAY ROUTE

Winnipeg, Man.—Maritime provinces were considering the possibility that Maritime coal could be shipped to western Canadian points through Churchill on the completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway, Hance J. Logan, K.C., of Amherst, N.S., newly appointed director of the Canadian National Railways, stated here.

Mr. Logan said that serious opposition to the Hudson's Bay Railway project had never developed in the Maritimes and there was a feeling which he shared that whatever might be the success of the route for grain shipments the development in mining and colonization which it would encourage, would justify its construction. It had been one of the fortunate aspects of railway construction in Canada that some development had always taken place to justify the work.

Those interested in shipping Maritime coal to Churchill believed that many grain boats would be going back to the Bay which could stop at Sydney, Cape Breton and take on loads of coal.

Mr. Logan said Canadian National officials would confer with the Canadian Pacific Railway with respect to the Peace River Railways as soon as Sir Henry Thornton returned from England. He was convinced, he said, that the Peace River District formed a very important part of Canada and he hoped the "negotiations would be successful." He had been asked about the likelihood of the C.N.R. joining the C.P.R. in the ownership of the Alberta Northern Lines. Sir Henry was expected back during the next two weeks.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Pool terminal elevator number seven, the world's largest single unit elevator, with a capacity of 7,200,000 bushels of grain, was officially opened in the presence of forty members and directors of the Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Manitoba wheat pools.

Newbitt, representing the Alberta Pool. The elevator is owned and operated by the Saskatchewan Pool Elevators Ltd., with headquarters at Regina. The building is 1,100 feet long, has 225 storage tanks, and 558 inter-space and outer space bins.

The tanks are 125 feet high and the work house is 210. The work was done in the record time of 140 days from the time the first concrete was poured.

World's Record Cow

Saskatchewan Cow Holds World's Championship As Butter Fat Producer

Moose Jaw.—According to official figures received here a Saskatchewan cow now holds the world's championship as a butterfat producer.

She is Canary Korndyke Alcarira, and is owned by Ben H. Thomsen, Boharm, who is famed throughout western Canada for his livestock records. During the official test period of 305 days the cow produced 1,080 pounds of butter fat, which is 106 pounds higher than any previous records.

Also during the official test period the champion cow produced 26,396 pounds of milk, which gave an average butter fat test of 4.04. The cow was milked three times a day, and was fed on feed grown on Braeburn Farm, Boharm.

Overcomes Gravity Force

Strange Claim Made In England By Young Scientist

London, Eng.—R. H. Tate, young scientist, claims to have overcome the laws of gravity, according to despatches recently from West Hartlepool to the Daily Express.

The experiment was demonstrated in a secret laboratory test, when a piece of metal—absolutely unattached to anything—was suspended in mid-air, the despatches said.

Tate placed on the floor the metal which was said to resemble aluminum but was of a composition heretofore unknown, and placed a similar piece of metal above it in the air. The top metal remained suspended—not for just a moment, but for as long as Tate left it there.

"I have eliminated the force of gravity," Tate said. "The metal is not insulated and it is thought that the practical possibilities of the discovery are apparent. I have discovered the new force from known forces, by eliminating gravity from the metal. The composition of the metal is known only to myself, but among its possibilities is the controlling of aircraft from the ground."

Experts said that, if true, the discovery would be the greatest in centuries.

Straits Clear Of Ice

No Ice Yet Reported To Be Seen On Hudson Straits

Ottawa, Ont.—No ice is reported in Hudson Straits, according to the latest radio message from the wireless stations there. A few icebergs and growlers have been seen, while there is a film of ice on the lake shore, but in the seaway proper, the ice has not yet appeared. The Canadian government seamer, Montcalm, with the party in charge of Major N. B. McLean, of Ottawa, is at present lying off Button Islands, at the extreme tip of Labrador. Major McLean will remain there until all navigation in the straits has been closed.

The string of wireless stations along the straits and on to Churchill, are in close touch with each other, and with the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries in Ottawa. Wireless developments have been added to by the establishment of a private station, at Mistake Island, 150 miles north of Fort Churchill, by the North American Mining Exploration Company, and another station has appeared at Baker Lake, in from Chesterfield Inlet.

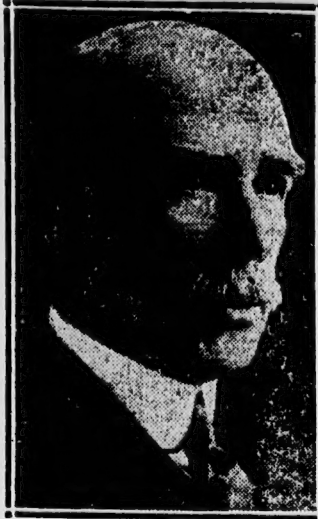

Four Killed In Plane Crash

Tugson, Ariz.—Four youths are dead here following a crash when a Ryan Brougham monoplane plunged against the side of a mountain while in full flight. The crash occurred when the plane, soaring over the Catalina mountains in search of Bill Hyatt, 18, reported there, hit an air pocket. The ship caught fire after crashing and was demolished. Its occupants were burned to death.

Toronto, Ont.—Hon. W. H. Price, attorney-general for Ontario, announced that the Crown would bend every effort to facilitate any action undertaken by Wm. Haskins, of London, who was recently sentenced to prison for five years on a charge of manslaughter, towards securing a new trial, or securing his release on bail pending a revision of his case.

Planning New Air Routes

Russia Wishes To Supplement Inadequate Railroad Service

Moscow.—More than 5,000 miles of new air lines will be opened in Soviet Russia next spring by the Soviet Air Transportation Company—"Dobrolet." The planning work is under way. The lines in every case are being laid out to supplement inadequate railroad service in the east and southeast.

Siberia, for the first time, will be connected with the European network of passenger and mail air routes, which now extend to Moscow. A daily service, 2,000 miles eastward to Irkutsk, near the Mongolian border, will be started in May in co-operation with the German Luft Hansa. With night flying, the distance will be covered in from 26 to 30 hours. It now takes five days by train.

Another air line will connect Alma Ata (where Leon Trotsky is in exile) with Novosibirsk over the route of the uncompleted Turkestan-Siberian railway. Several new lines are planned in the Volga Valley. German Junkers planes will be used upon all the lines.

Federal Assistance Needed

Premier Tolmie Of B.C. Thinks Government Should Aid In Building Roads

Vancouver, B.C.—The Federal government should again initiate the policy in effect between 1919 and 1925 whereby the provinces could earn grants of assistance in building trunk roads, Premier S. F. Tolmie, said in the course of an address to the Vancouver Board of Trade.

The Premier said it was time the Federal government recognized the trend of modern times and give assistance to the provinces in the matter of roads. The Dominion government, he remarked, through the post-office and other departments was one of the biggest users of roads.

Holding Swine Club Tests

Winning Teams Will Go To Royal Winter Fair

Winnipeg, Man.—Preliminary arrangements have been completed by the Canadian National Railways for the interprovincial boys' and girls' swine club competition, which will be held on November 21, at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Six provinces will be represented this year and the results of the provincial competitions will decide the teams which are to go to Toronto.

Teams from each province will be the guests of the National system during the week of the Royal Fair, and the entertainment of the boys and girls will include a trip to Niagara Falls and a visit to the Donalds Farms, just outside of Toronto.

In the past two years teams from Roland, Manitoba, have won and successfully defended the W. D. Robb Trophy, which is emblematic of interprovincial championship. The cup is held by the winning team for one year. Gold medals are presented to the winning team from each province.

Wheat Pool Makes Denial

Are Not Holding Up Wheat Shipments In Order To Raise Prices

Winnipeg, Man.—E. B. Ramsay, secretary of the Manitoba Wheat Pool, has denied charges that the Canadian Wheat Pool is holding up shipments of wheat, and thus increasing the cost of flour and bread in England.

"Nobody in Canada is satisfied with the present level of wheat," declared Mr. Ramsay. However, we are not retarding shipments, but on the other hand, are not free sellers on the present price levels," he added.

From the point of view of the Canadian farmer, Mr. Ramsay continued, the prices are considered too low at present and "we find that the non-pool members are also of the same opinion." The non-pool members, he added, are storing their grain, awaiting acceptable prices.

Clean Law Administration

British Columbia Will Not Resort To Use Of "Stool Pigeons"

Victoria, B.C.—"Stool pigeons" must not be employed by British Columbia provincial police under a policy announced by Hon. F. H. Pooley, attorney-general.

"The police of this province are going to operate on a clean, above-board basis and the use of stool pigeons will never form a part of their methods," Mr. Pooley said, adding, "The police will never use agents to persuade persons to break the law in order to get convictions. Practices of that kind cannot be tolerated."

Carlisle, Eng.—Chung Yi Miao, young Chinese law student from New York, was found guilty of the murder of his bride, Wai Sheung Miao, here and was sentenced to death.

JOURNALISM OF TODAY IS OF A HIGH STANDARD

New York.—Frank B. Noyes, of the Washington Star, president of the Associated Press, told a group of representative industrialists here that newspapers as a whole were "worthy of the confidence of their readers."

Speaking at the fifth annual conference of major industries held at Columbia University, Mr. Noyes said he thought everyone familiar with journalism in the last fifty years would agree "that in accuracy of statement, in breadth of information, in ethical standards, there had been a steady progress upward."

Mr. Noyes, appearing as the representative of the publishing industry, said that the reports of newspapers and press associations did contain "many inaccuracies" since they were the products of human beings, but he gave assurance that "the intention is to fairly and accurately depict the situation described."

He defended modern journalism against forms of attack and criticism, which he said were unjust and unwarranted.

"As it is I am serenely conscious of the fact that we are doing our level best day in and day out, to keep in the middle of the road, having no partiality for any party and church, any economic theory or any cause or man whatever, and on the other hand no hostility to any of them."

"I know that this is true of the Associated Press, and I believe it is also true of the other large press associations."

"There have been venal newspapermen as there have been venal doctors, lawyers, business men and even venal politicians, but God be thanked that the newspaper crooks are few and far between."

Will Dredge For Gold

Syndicate Will Operate On River Near Medicine Hat

Medicine Hat, Alta.—A syndicate composed of local men, assisted by Vancouver and United States capital, has leased ninety miles of river front below this city and is conducting tests preparatory to dredging the gravel for gold. Some thirty years ago there was considerable activity of this nature along the river, the old hand panning process being followed with returns averaging four dollars a day for experts. George L. Holms, San Francisco engineer, is in charge of the tests.

Sir Arthur Currie In France

Montreal, Que.—Sir Arthur Currie will not resume his duties as principal of McGill University for about two months, according to a cable received at the office of acting principal, Dr. Charles Martin, Dean of the medical faculty. It is now expected Sir Arthur will return shortly before or during Christmas season. He has fully recovered his health and at present times is continuing his vacation in the south of France.

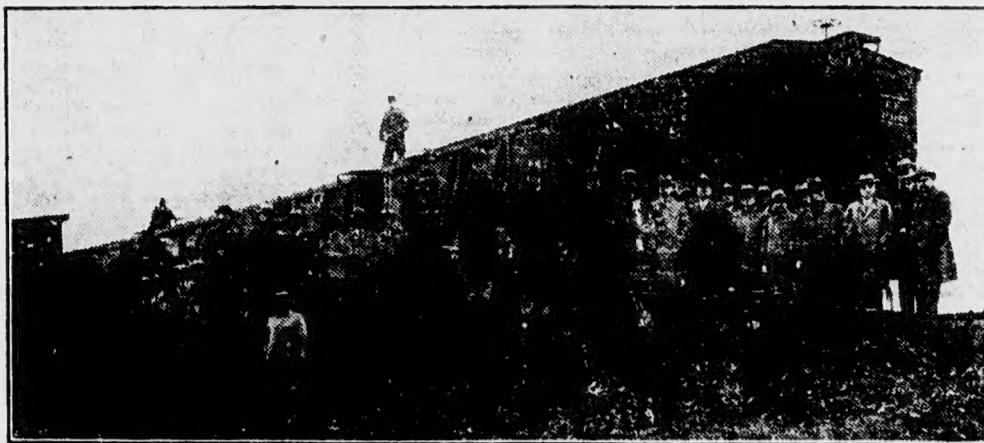

Want To Find Owners

Philadelphia.—The United States government has joined forces with District Attorney Monaghan, who is directing the grand jury investigation of rum runners and police corruption, in his efforts to identify the mysterious owners of 16 bank accounts, totalling nearly $12,000,000. Monaghan believes the money was deposited by bootleggers, and the federal government wants to determine whether income taxes were paid on funds.

Ottawa.—An official inquiry into the wreck of the Western Canada Airways plane, which took fire following a crash near Calgary, will be instituted by officers of the High River air station, it was announced by the Department of National Defence.

WHY MEN FAIL

Most men who fail in life do so because they are not interested in their jobs. Men who are interested in their work never fail.

They become indispensable, in a manner of speaking. The employer they work for, or the community they serve, come to depend upon them for their enthusiasm, their reliability, and their efficiency. Such men seldom have to look for jobs; jobs look for them. The pity of it all is, "and pity 'tis, 'tis true," that most men take such little interest in the work that provides them with their livelihood that they are easily replaced and seldom missed.

No matter what a man works at he should feel an interest in the job by which he earns his living. It is surprising how frequently the ability to do things well will prove a source of helplessness to a man when things go wrong. Knowledge of how to do things always comes in handy, at some time or other.

Take an interest in your work. Keep your eyes off the clock and on your task. In fact if you have eyes for the work you are doing, the things you are creating, the process you are carrying on, or the service you are rendering, you will lose the sense of time when you are working and will rather come to feel annoyed that time flies by so quickly. There is no bunkum in this. Men fail at their jobs because they find nothing in them to hold their attention. Get something to do that you like doing. If you don't like it, make yourself like it. Study it. Find out all about it. Get books that will inform you. Ask others when you don't know yourself; they'll tell you. Have ideals. You'll never want a job if you determine to know something just a shade better than somebody else knows it and always do the job in hand a little better than you believe the other fellow would. There is No Failure except in Not Striving.

BUILD A FOUNDATION, TOO

There was a sign in a savings bank window the other day which said: "If you dream castles in the air, save and put a foundation under them."

Once there was a young man who had always dreamed of being wealthy. As a boy he pictured himself dressed in the height of fashion, snappy cut to his clothes, and all that, walking down Main street. People on the sidewalk would point him out, saying, "Yes, there's Sam Greene, young fellow, but smart. Yes, sir, smart. Owns that big house on the hill, and has got a good pile salted down already. Must be worth $100,000."

So Sam, as an initial step toward wealth, saved, and after a time reached his first goal, the $1,000 after which, 'tis said, the money just grows.

But about this time Sam got a girl, and then he wanted to make a splurge. He wasn't going to take her into any little two-by-four house; he was going to have that house on the hill. So Sam began looking around for ways to help that $1,000 grow, and like many a thrifty but too impatient young man, bought wildcat stock. And the $1,000 was gone and with it Sam's dream of the house on the hill and all the rest.

To return to the ad in the bank window: "If you dream castles in the air, save and put a foundation under them." But be sure the foundation is a solid one.

DO YOU ADVERTISE?

The fellow who wants business and doesn't advertise is like the guy who wants to marry the girl but doesn't tell her. The foregoing sounds like a joke, but nevertheless it's no joke when considered from the standpoint of business—we mean advertising. The following story is illustrative of what happens when you don't advertise.

When Mark Twain in his early days was editor of a Missouri paper, a superstitious subscriber wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his paper, and asking him whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist wrote him this answer and printed it:

"Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

THRESHERS REQUIRED TO SEND IN RETURNS

Owners and operators of threshing machines and combine harvesters are being reminded at this time by the Department of Agriculture that they are required to furnish a return at the end of the threshing season showing the number of acres and number of bushels of the various kinds of grain threshed. Special forms for this purpose are supplied each thresherman at the time he secures the license to operate his machine for the season. It should be pointed out that whether the owner of the machine threshes only his own crop or does custom work in the neighborhood, he is required to furnish this information, which is invaluable to the Department in compiling agricultural statistics for the year.

ALBERTA WHEAT YIELD AVERAGE REDUCED

On the basis of returns received by the Department of Agriculture from threshers in all sections of the province, it is estimated that the Alberta wheat crop for 1928 will average approximately 20 bushels per acre. Although this figure is some seven bushels lower than the phenomenal returns in 1927, it is over two bushels above the ten year average for the wheat yield for the province. Further threshers' returns and reports of grain inspections indicate that the damage to the crop as a result of the frost is more serious than was anticipated when earlier estimates were made.

Notice to Threshermen

Owners or operators of threshing machines and combine harvesters are required to send to the Department of Agriculture at the end of the threshing season a return showing the number of acres and number of bushels threshed. This applies whether the machine has been used for custom work or only for the owner's crop. Special forms for these returns may be secured from the Publicity Branch, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

SWORD DANCE IN CANADIAN ROCKIES

marital bagpipes he has played even longer, will again recount to the Canadian Rockies, making Banff re-nounce its name in Auld Scotia. Initiated last year under the patronage of the Prince of Wales, this festival has quickly established itself as a Canadian institution, with regiments of piping, contests, athletic games, folk songs and Highland dances—all as old as Scotland herself. Notable among the musical features arranged by Harold Eustace Key, musical director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is the special performance of "The Jolly Beggar," a cavalcade with text by Burns and music by Sir Henry Babco. At the daily concert in the hotel ballroom notable Canadian artists will sing the folk songs of Scotland, and Scottish Canadian ladies will join their ladies in the Highland ring, the sword dance, the sailor's hornpipe, the Scotch reel and the graceful scotch strathspey.

As the main time the Alberta Amateur Championship meet will crown the victors in the flat and hurdle races, weight-throwing, tug-of-war, high and broad jumping, tossing the caber, shot putting and discus and javelin throwing. The regiments of pipers from all over the Dominion will compete for the prizes offered by J. W. Beatty.

In appearance the champion very much resembled an ape. His bullet-like head was close cropped. The small piggish eyes were deep set under overhanging, beetling brows, and the nose was flat like a negro's. His lips were thick, with a repulsive twist that gave his face a sinister look. His massive jaw was purposely left unshaved to rasp the tender skin of his opponent's shoulders in the clinches. His enormous barrel-shaped chest was covered with a thick growth of hair. His shoulders were broad and his disproportionately long arms, heavily muscled, terminated in two thick ham-like hands. He gazed confidently at Donald's corner.

A pasteboard box containing the gloves was tossed to the centre of the ring. There was a stir as the announcer pushed his way through the ropes. Andy crossed the ring to examine the champion's hands for tape and to test thoroughly the new gloves for any trace of sewed in shot or lotion that would cause the eyes to smart. One of Garrieau's seconds was making a similar examination in Donald's corner.

A big man in a wide-brimmed hat, with a mackinaw coat over his arm, came walking down the steps of the arena. The look of astonishment on his face gradually gave place to one of joy. He ran to the ringside.

"Donald!" he shouted joyously, as he sprang through the ropes. With a thrill of pleasure Donald held out his hand to Jack Gillis. The big man's face was beaming. "Just got in," he said. "Bin lookin' all over town for you! I come to the fight and—holy mackerel!—here you are one of the fighters!"

Andy noted the glad look in Donald's eyes and he spoke sharply to Donald's seconds, who were for ordering the boisterous visitor out of the ring. The word "psychology" was foreign to Andy, but he knew that Donald's mind had for a moment drifted away from the fight. Donald was surprised to see Douglas greet Gillis warmly as the big man left the ring.

"I have two good friends in the audience, anyway," whispered Donald to himself.

Andy leaned over him, talking in a low voice, giving him comfort and advice. "E'll try right along, Donnie, to get your goat by cursing and using vile language, but don't listen 'im, and don't lose your temper. 'E fights with 'is chin tucked in the hollow of 'is left shoulder and 'is neck muscles rigid. It's mighty 'ard to land on 'is jaw with a right. Now the first round," Andy went on, "you just jab 'im light with your left; don't 'it 'ard, just a good snappy punch. 'E'll think you 'ave no sting in it, and the next 'round 'e'll get careless and let you 'it 'im so's to get a punch. Of course, if you see a good opening, let fly with all you 'ave, but 'e won't open up until 'e tries you out a bit. Watch the dirty blighter in the clinches; 'e'll foul you if 'e gets a chance. Another thing, this is to be twenty rounds, so tyke your time. Now is everything clear to you, Donnie?"

"Yes, Andy."

Andy patted Donald's bare shoulder affectionately.

The contestants stood in their corners as they were introduced. The referee beckoned them to the centre of the ring for instructions. As Donald slipped the enveloping bathrobe from his shoulders and stepped forward, a murmur of admiration swelled from the crowd. His lean loins and broad shoulders showed to advantage in the bright light. The long, flowing muscles rippled under his skin when he moved, like those of a panther. Loud applause came from all over the arena. Garrieau, thinking the ovation was for himself, turned and ducked his head with a motion that was intended for a bow.

A rough voice near the top shouted: "Aw! that wasn't for you, you big stiff!"

The judge and the dentist turned and looked at each other. The eyes of the latter seemed to say, "I told you so." The judge smiled and nodded.

A fat man, who could not have been more than thirty-five years of age, yet with rolls of fat at his waist-line, a bulbous nose and florid face, bit savagely on a big cigar. "By gad!" he ejaculated, "that man is perfect." There was a look of admiration and envy in his red-rimmed eyes. Thus do men admire the strong, well-kept body of the athlete, even though their own physical self has degenerated to mere paste.

"Two to one that Garrieau wins inside of ten rounds!" shouted a voice. Douglas covered the bet at once.

"Now, men," instructed the referee briskly, "this is to be for twenty rounds. You are to fight clean breaks. You can hit with one arm free, but you cannot hold with one and hit with the other. When I say 'Break' I want you to break at once and step back. Do you understand fully? Good! To your corners."

Donald glanced at his friends, who sat with their eyes upon him. He felt Andy's hand upon him gently stroking his arm, yet he could not suppress the trembling in his limbs.

"Everything's all right, Donnie," whispered Andy softly.

The gong rang.

Garrieau assumed the crouch Andy had predicted, his chin resting in the hollow of his shoulder, his eyes seeming to retreat into his skull under the overhanging brows. This was the champion's famous "fighting face."

"Pretty boy, ain't yer?" he scoffed. "I'm goin' to knock dose pretty teeth down yer throat, you—" he cursed Donald snapped a light left to the ugly face and danced out of range. The champion's thick lips parted in a fiendish grin. "My, mamma's nice boy has a terrible punch!" he derided.

Donald continued his dazzling footwork, keeping the champion in pursuit and contending himself with occasional left-hand jabs that kept his opponent's head rocking. He shot glances at intervals to his corner for instructions from Andy, who nodded his head in approval of his tactics.

The round finished in the challenger's favour by a wide margin on points. The champion had not landed a single effective blow during the round.

The action of the first round caused Donald to forget his nervousness. Andy crowded between his knees and gently massaged his body, all the while speaking words of commendation and counsel.

"Now that you find that you can reach 'im easily with your left, watch me for signals. If I see that 'e's openin' up, I'll give you the sign to shoot your left with all you 'ave. If he swings again with 'is left, try for 'is bread basket. You understand me, Donnie?"

"Easiest thing I've picked yet," chuckled the champion as he came to his corner.

"He may be stalling," cautioned his evil-faced manager.

"Huh!" grunted the champion. "I can take all he has in dat left and never feel it. I'm goin' to open up on him de last part of de next round."

The gong rang for the second round.

Donald caught a glimpse of Pursell's face as he crouched in the opposite corner. Such a look of vicious hate shot from his one gleaming eye that Donald shivered.

The rough element began to boo Donald for his running tactics. Some fans feel that they are being cheated out of the price of admission unless they can witness the spectacle of two boxers slugging toe to toe until one goes down. Science counts for nothing with this small minority.

"Whadda ya think this is, a marathon?" they shouted.

"Powder-puff punch!" derided another.

Garrieau suddenly tore in, letting loose a terrific right that would have stopped the bout right then if it had landed. From a clinch Donald looked to his corner. Andy went through the pantomime of shooting a straight left. Donald nodded.

"Powder-puff punch!" again shouted the disgruntled fan.

"Did ya hear that?" hissed Garrieau, twisting his mouth into an apish grin. "Yo can't hit hard enough to break an egg. I'm goin' to fix dose teeth' for you now." He leered brutally as he tore after Donald, disdainful of the belittled left.

Donald stopped abruptly in his flight and shot a lightning left across to his pursuer's jaw. The champion saw it coming, but too late to block it. He threw his body into reverse, robbing the blow of a great deal of its force; yet enough was left to send him reeling back to the ropes, his head whirling and his knees wobbly. With a roar the spectators came to their feet as one man. The gong saved Garrieau.

The crowd gave Donald a deafening ovation as he walked to his corner. He looked for his friends and saw Douglas and Gillis locked in an embrace and dancing madly in the narrow aisle.

A LAUGHING BABY IS A GREAT JOY

What can give more joy in the home than a laughing, happy baby. The well child makes everyone happy with his tuneful gurgle and bright laughing eyes. It is only the sickly baby who is not a laughing baby, for it is the little one's nature to be happy when well.

Mothers, if your baby is cross, if he cries a great deal and no amount of attention seems to make him happy, give him a dose of Baby's Own Tablets and he will soon be well and ready to radiate that happiness through the home again.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and correct those troubles which accompany the cutting of teeth and in doing those things—and doing them well—they make baby happy and keep him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What is the most dangerous age of a person in respect to accidents? According to the Workers' Compensation Commission, at Sydney, N.S., W., a person of 20 years is in the greatest peril. From that age the accident rate decreases and the safest age is set down at 75 years.

There's been a revolution in the science of battery building—Eveready has found a way to give you more battery for your money than you ever bought before!

The new Layerbilt principle can be understood by anyone. It simply gives you more current-making elements by packing flat cells like crackers in a box, instead of using many round cells with waste space between.

You actually get the equivalent of a much bigger battery and, of course, it takes much longer to use it up. That's why you should buy Eveready Layerbilts and save money. Now selling at new low prices. Ask your dealer.

Forty new school districts have been established in Alberta this year, according to the Department of Education, bringing the total of rural districts up to approximately 3,000. Over 5,000 school rooms are now being operated including city, town and rural schools. School expansion has been particularly noticeable in the northern part of the province, three new districts having been formed in the Battle River Prairie district north of Peace River. Next year is expected to see many further additions made to the number of schools in the province.

In order to extend the scope of the work being done by the Women's Home Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Miss Romanchuk, of Winnipeg, has been appointed to work in rural communities in the Vegreville district. Miss Romanchuk, who by training is well suited to this work, will conduct a survey of non-English speaking communities. When not engaged in field work she will be available at the offices of the District Agriculturist at Vegreville.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

Golden Text: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; love therefore is the fulfillment of the law."—Romans 13:10.

Lesson: Romans 13:1-14.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

Obedience To Civil Authority a Christian Duty, verses 1-7.—"Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" was the burning question which the Pharisees brought to Jesus, and you recall how He answered, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's." A great part of the Jews were always questioning the lawfulness of paying taxes and of recognizing the authority of the Roman Government. The Jews of Rome had been especially turbulent, and of this Paul must have heard many accounts from Priscilla and Aquila, who had been forced to leave Rome on account of the trouble. In writing to the Romans, therefore, Paul was naturally led to take up the question of the Christian's relation to the civil authority.

"Let every soul be in subjection to the higher powers—those in authority, the civil rulers, he counseled, and then by means of two clauses, one negative and the other positive, he asserted that the fact of the authority being established argues that it was ordained of God.

"The Roman Empire maintained law and order, protected life and property, and was on the whole, as Paul believed, a beneficent power. Nero, the reigning emperor, was, it is true, a dissolute young man who often arbitrarily did as he pleased with the lives of his subjects, but at the time Paul was writing, persecution of the Christians had come from other Jews or from popular riots, and not from the Roman Government. At Paphos (Acts 13), Thessalonica (Acts 17), Corinth (Acts 18), and at Ephesus (Acts 19), Paul had found the Roman officials a restraining power to his persecutors. Noteworthy is it, that after Paul had appealed to Rome and had been kept in confinement for some time without trial, he wrote to Timothy, 1. Tim. 2:1, 2: 'I exhort therefore, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgivings, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in high places, that we may lead a tranquil and quiet life in all godliness and gravity.'

"If our laws are not Christian, then it is our business to make them Christian; if those in authority do not represent Christian ideals, we are not to deny authority, but to secure legislators and governors whose ideals are Christian. We are more fortunate than those to whom the apostle wrote; we have some say about the laws which are to be enacted and the officials who execute them."—Gaius Glenn Atkins.

Giant Guns For Naval Base

Constructed As Experiment During War But Never Used

Three giant guns constructed experimentally during the War have arrived at Singapore from England, to form part of the naval base's defence. They are 18-inch weapons, nearly sixty feet long, which weigh 150 tons each and fire a 3,333 lb. projectile. These three guns were the only ones of their kind constructed. They were mounted on naval units for use in bombarding German positions, but the war ended before they could be effectively employed.

"Pretty near got 'im that time, Donnie!" cried Andy gleefully. "If you an get 'im to lift 'is jaw off 'is shoulder, send in your right." Andy's hands were shaking with excitement, while Donald was cool and collected.

"Let me go after him, Andy," he begged; "I can whip him at his own game."

"No, no!" admonished Andy, "keep on as you are. Don't try to swap punches with 'im!"

Garrieau's seconds were working over him feverishly. Pursell leaned over the heavily-breathing champion, his evil face sick with apprehension. "What'd I tell yer?" he exclaimed. "They've stuck a ringer in on us; dat feller ain't no amachoor! If he beats ya we're both bums! Foul him dis round, for de—" he finished with a savage oath.

At the beginning of the third round Garrieau charged his elusive adversary like a mad bull. Donald easily side-stepped him and he plunged into the ropes. As he rebounded, Donald landed a left and danced safely away without reprisal.

"You can do pretty footwork," snarled the champion with a look of Simian ferocity, "but I'll get you, you—" There followed a burst of wild cursing. He tried to rush Donald to the ropes, feinted for the wind, and let loose a powerful right for the jaw. Paying no attention to the feint, Donald ducked the blow and, countering, shot his left to his opponent's mid-section. The champion grunted aloud, fell into clinch, and hung on grimly. The referee pried them apart. Again the crowd came to their feet to shout in a frenzy of excitement.

Garrieau fell into a clinch, then wrestled about until he placed his opponent between himself and the referee. He loosed his right in a terrific upper-cut that missed, but his left smashed with fearful force to Donald's groin the most brutal foul that can be delivered. The referee did not see the blow.

Donald's nerves quivered with agony. A wave of torment and the awful nausea that follows such a blow swept through him. His face writhing with anguish, his gloved hand clutching his groin, he crashed forward on his face. His body twitched for a moment, then lay still.

The crowd came to their feet and many moved toward the exits. Another victim, they thought, to the champion's terrible punch. A number at the ringside, who had witnessed the foul blow, stood upon their seats and screamed denunciations at the referee.

The referee stood with one hand on Garrieau's massive chest. The latter was lustfully straining forward while the fatal seconds were tolled off.

The roar of the crowd came to Donald's ears like the dash of waves on a distant shore. At the count of five his body quivered. At the count of eight, his jaw sagging, his face distorted, he struggled to his knees. He saw Andy's agonised face as through a fog and heard his desperate cry of appeal.

"Up, Donnie! Up!"

At the count of nine Donald's benumbed muscles answered the call of his brain. With tremendous effort he staggered to his feet and wound his arms about his face. The crowd yelled themselves hoarse in tribute to his courage.

Garrieau was upon him with a growl like a wild beast. Donald stood in the centre of the ring reeling drunkenly. Garrieau shot a terrific right for Donald's wind that struck his weakly protecting elbows. The impact carried him to the ropes, and he fell forward to his knees. Again the referee's arm rose and fell as he counted the seconds. Again Donald tottered to his feet to meet a fusillade of short-arm jolts that pierced his guard and sent him staggering.

The gong rang. With body swaying unsteadily and legs wavering, Donald walked to his corner and sank down heavily. What a blessed relief to lie and relax! His head felt leaden and there was a ringing in his ears.

His seconds worked over him in furious haste. Andy knew all the tricks of resuscitation: the upward sweep of hand on the mid-riff that brings the big nerve centre to life; the quick raising of the chest that brings air to the remote corners of the lungs. With a sudden choking in his throat, the little Australian realized that this boy was very dear to him. A prayer on his lips, his hands trembling, but sure and deft, he strove to restore the shattered nerves.

The colour came slowly to Donald's cheeks and the haze cleared away as the cold water was showered upon him. He felt his strength returning. A long deep breath and he was himself again. He looked across the ring at Garrieau, whose vulture-like manager was leaning over him with an exultant look on his face. This brute had deliberately fouled him. A cold and terrible rage swept through every fibre of Donald's being. He had demeaned himself by entering the prize ring. This was bad enough; but to lose the battle!—Never! He looked for his friends. Their faces, he saw, were tense and full of misery.

"Andy, I'm going after him," he declared in a hard voice.

Andy was about to remonstrate, but he caught a flash of the hard light in Donald's eyes, and the words died on his lips. He hesitated. Maybe he should have let Donald take the aggressive from the start.

"Are you strong enough, Donnie?" Donald's eyes held a dull glow. "Yes!" he gritted.

Andy patted his arm as the gong rang. "Give 'im 'ell, Donnie!" And then added reverently: "May God giv 'im strength."

Donald shot from his corner as though thrown from a catapult to meet Garrieau before he was fairly out of his chair. The spectators held their breath. Was this the man who a minute before had walked staggering and beaten to his chair? When the referee pried the fighters apart after a fierce mix-up in the champion's corner, a puffed eye and a bloody face showed that Garrieau had absorbed severe punishment. Donald was everywhere, dancing in for a fierce rally and out again, always without a return.

The arena fairly rocked to the cheers of the crowd as Donald stood in the centre of the ring and exchanged punches with the champion. Head to head they stood while Donald's arms worked with such lightning speed that the champion's blows

NEW

They were all in a happy mood after the prolonged strain of the day. Andy was in particularly high spirits. "Gentlemen," he began grandiloquently, "I 'ave before me on the tible 'ere a most wonderful little 'andbag. All it 'ad in it this morning was a dirty collar and a shirt stud. Now," making a dramatic gesture, "it's the bloomin' 'orn of plenty!" He turned the satchel upside down and a mass of bills, coins and cheques fell upon the table.

"Ere, Gillis," cried Andy, as he selected a bill, "will you go out and get some champagne, and when you goes in the bar buy a drink for the 'ouse. Bring ginger ale for Donnie; 'is manager'll drink 'is share of the wine."

Andy sorted the money into piles and sat quietly counting for a few minutes. "Fifteen thousand and a few odd dollars," he announced.

"What!" ejaculated Donald. He was astounded. He had given the size of the purse little thought. "I had no idea it would be so much," he said in a surprised tone.

"Oh, the boxin' gyme is a great gyme," said Andy.

"Yes," remarked Douglas, "but after seeing that bout today I'm going to take up tiddlywinks instead; it's not so rough."

When the big man returned with the wine Donald turned to Douglas. "It seems that you and Gillis are old friends."

"Why, yes, Jack's been one of Dad's right-hand men for—how long, Jack?"

"About ten years," replied Gillis. "And I'm equally interested to know how you and Jack know each other so well," said Douglas curiously.

"I met Donald on the train comin' out," answered Gillis quickly. "Come on, boys," cried Andy, "we'll drink to the new champ—to Donnie's health." Andy held his glass aloft. "Boys, I can't make much of a speech, as I 'ave only 'ad one drink. Stand up while we drink to our Donnie. I knows that 'e's goin' to leave me, and that 'e's goin' to give up the boxin' gyme. I knows that 'e's isn't in the 'abit of mixin' with the likes o' me. I knows that I'm lucky to be blackin' the boots o' a man like 'im. But when I knows that 'e went into this fight to 'elp a poor little bloke like me out of an 'ole, I'm proud, boys, I'm proud! I've seen many a fight, and I've seen many a gyme man. But strike me blind if Donnie didn't this day teach me something about sheer grit. When 'e came stumblin' to me at the end of that—that third round—I—" He stopped. "You know what 'appened," he continued in a husky voice. "I ask nothin' better'n to 'ave 'im for me pal. 'Ere's to the gymest man that ever stepped in shoe-leather! 'Ere's to 'im!" Andy turned away quickly to light a cigarette. His eyes were moist. The room was silent.

Donald was deeply moved by his little friend's show of feeling. Douglas broke the silence. "You got back to the Coast just in time, Jack."

"How's that?"

"Dad has started on the biggest job that he's tackled yet."

"What is it?"

"Do you remember the big tract of timber that he bought in the Cheakamus Valley?"

"Yes, he bought on my advice," answered Gillis.

"Well, he's going to run a railroad in and build sawmills, and saw the logs right on the spot instead of shipping them to the Coast."

"Good!" said Gillis heartily. "There's a wonderful stand of timber in that valley."

"But here's the best part of it," Douglas went on eagerly: "Dad's going to send you in to cruise the timber around Summit Lake, and I'm to go with you. It's a wonderful counhead through the door. "Come and get your dough!" he shouted.

"Strike me lucky!" returned Andy. "Those words 'ave a pleasant sound. He picked up a small handbag and left the room. In a few moments he returned, his face beaming. He tapped the satchel. "Chuck full," he said happily.

At the gymnasium they gathered in Andy's room, and for the first time Donald told them of the attempted "frame-up" proposed by Garrieau's manager, Douglas strode across the room and gripped Donald's hand. Not a word was uttered by anyone, but the silence was more eloquent than speech.

try. I was up there last summer." He turned to Donald. "Will you go with us?"

"I'll be glad to," assented Donald. "Good!" cried Douglas. "It will be fine camping with you and Jack."

Little Andy sat patiently listening to this lively conversation, in which he had been completely ignored. He could contain himself no longer.

"I s'y," he blurted, "am I such a blinkin' dwarf that you've forgotten that I'm in this 'ere crowd? Isn't me 'ead above the tible? Where the 'ell do I get off on this 'ere bloomin' picnic, I asks you?"

One look into the Australian's seriously comic face with its heavy blond eyebrows wagging up and down set Douglas into paroxysms of laughter. "Andy," he declared, "I'm going to take you along, even if we have to mark you 'excess baggage.' Can you cook?"

THE RADIO PROBLEM

The radio situation has settled down to a fight between powerful stations doing national broadcasting and weak local stations. The Federal Radio Commission must decide whether there is a public demand for the local stations, and if not, whether it can ignore the property rights of these stations and silence them for all time.

Because their programs are usually of a high standard the larger stations enjoy the greatest popularity. Local stations are tolerated as long as they do not interfere with stations broadcasting a better program and are actually a boon when broadcasting during the periods the large stations are off the air.

The Independent Broadcasters' Association, which is defending the 162 stations ordered off the air, may be partly right in its argument that communities have the same right to local radio stations as they have to local newspapers. This argument might stand up if the communities were defending this right claimed for them by their local broadcasting stations. In most instances communities affected have evinced little concern whether their local station stands or falls.

NEW AGRICULTURE TEXT DISTRIBUTED

A new text book on agriculture is now being distributed by the school book branch of the Department of Education for use in the high schools of the province. It bears the title "Canadian Agriculture for High Schools," and is authorized as a text for the higher grades, the elementary grades already having a text on the subject. The authors are a number of the members of the faculty of agriculture at the University of Alberta, and the book is particularly concerned with and adapted to the conditions of Alberta farm life and work. Alberta is the first province in the Dominion to have an advanced text of this description.

Radio should not become a national monopoly and it will not develop into that. Neither should it remain a blemish of static and interference of little value to anyone. When the federal commission protects the best stations against interference it is acting in the interests of the radio public.
